

iTunes Announcer II v1.0

AppleScript for iTunes
written by Aaron Harnly

Find more free AppleScripts and info on writing your own at Doug's AppleScripts for iTunes.

iTunes Announcer II sits in the background, keeping track of what song you're playing. It can now announce that information:

- * By speaking, DJ-style, over each new song as it plays (as before)
- * By creating a simple web page, saved to your hard drive or iTools site.
- * By uploading that web page to an FTP site.
- * By updating your Entourage email signature.

It also now has a very easy-to-use format for customizing each of those announcements. So it's notably more flexible and useful than before.

Note that you'll have to customize the location of the web page by opening the script in Script Editor before using it.

Installation:

If you installed the files from the downloaded disk image by dragging them to the "Installer", then the AppleScript and this Read Me document have already been installed in your [user name] > Library > iTunes > Scripts folder. The script will appear in iTunes' Script menu, where you can activate it by clicking on its name.

To manually install, if necessary: Put AppleScripts in your iTunes Scripts folder. This is located in [user name] > Library > iTunes. If there is no folder named "Scripts" there, create one and put the script(s) in it. AppleScripts will then appear in iTunes' Script menu, and can be activated by selecting by name and clicking. Be sure to also save this Read Me document in a safe and convenient place.
